

BANK CLERKS OBEYED ORDER

Cashier And His Assistant Tell Of Dougherty's Business Methods In Bank.

CHICAGO MAN BEFORE THE JURY

Discrepancy Shown Between Stubs Of School Board Books And The Supply Firms' Accounts Indicate Large Loss.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.] Peoria, Ill., Oct. 12.—Determined to inquire still deeper into the Dougherty scandal, the grand jury called in Cashier S. O. Spring and Assistant Cashier Fred Bracken. Sensational disclosures may follow concerning loose methods of handling the school funds in the bank. Both men appeared considerably flustered when they came from the grand jury room. "Yes, we did cash school scrip made payable to Mr. Dougherty," said Assistant Cashier Bracken. "He would make out the scrip for different amounts, and we would exchange it for a draft for the same sum and turn it over to him unendorsed. We supposed it was to pay off bills and thought that he sent the drafts to the creditors of the school board."

Dougherty Raised Checks. H. J. Merle, secretary and treasurer of the A. H. Andrews Desk Supply Company of Chicago, was on the stand, and after a comparison of the books of his firm and stubs of the school board books it was found that in three years Dougherty had defrauded the school board out of $13,000 by raising checks and using the difference between the amounts. The largest defalcation in connection with the Andrews firm was the raising of a check by Dougherty from $13.50 to $1,300.

With the scrip for $13.50 he had purchased a draft for $1,300, which had been sent to Denver and cashed by his son Ralph. Mr. Merle denied the rumor that Dougherty was in any way connected with the Andrews company. "I do not know Dougherty, personally and never have come in contact with him," he said. "I must certainly does not own any stock in the A. H. Andrews company."

Depositors in Protest. The indorsement of Cashier S. O. Spring for receiver of the Peoria National bank by the directors at a special meeting has caused a big protest from the depositors, who declare that he shall not be placed in charge of the funds. Prominent depositors called an indignation meeting to denounce the action of the board of directors. Over 100 depositors gathered and in strong terms denounced the action of the directors, stating positively that they would not stand for the appointment of an officer of the bank in such a position.

The meeting ended with the appointment of a committee of three depositors, composed of Judge W. L. Slemmons, J. W. O'Brien and John T. Neilson. This committee will communicate with Comptroller Ridgely in Washington and express their desire for the retention of C. H. Bosworth as permanent receiver.

Start Inquiry at Springfield. Springfield, Ill., Oct. 12.—The Springfield school board has ordered an investigation of the finances of school district and an expert accountant is to go to work on the books next week. Five years ago the then president of the board, R. D. Lawrence, was ill and it was not possible to get his signature to warrants. The plan of paying by check was adopted and since then it has been followed. Officials deny that there is any suspicion regarding the correctness of the accounts, but they want to have warrants issued in the legal way for the old transactions.

DOG SAVED HIGHLAND HOUSE FROM FLAMES

Fox Terrier "Toodles" Scented Trouble in Clothes Closet and Awoke Frank Jones Last Night.

"Toodles," an intelligent fox terrier and a particular pet of Frank Jones, one of the boarders, prevented a disastrous fire which might have cost several lives at the Highland House on East Milwaukee street last evening. Everyone in the caravansary appears to have been fast asleep, when, about eleven o'clock, a blaze started in a clothes closet at the far end of the second-story hallway. "Toodles" caught a sniff of the smoke and reasoned—some say brute animals do not reason—that all was not as it should be. He sought the room of Mr. Jones and pawed vigorously at the recumbent figure. Mr. Jones awoke, gently pushed the dog away from the bed, and turned over to sleep again. But the dog was not to be gotten rid of thus easily. He continued his efforts more vigorously than before. When Mr. Jones showed an inclination to rise the dog ran to the door, but when he settled down again the little terrier came right back and renewed the scratching process. It presently dawned on the

BODY OF MURDERED MAN IS CUT UP AND PIECES SCATTERED

Ghostly Crime Committed in New York Boarding House—Occupant of Room Where Dead Was Done Is Arrested.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.] New York, Oct. 12.—A ghastly murder was committed in a Third avenue boarding-house early this morning. George Lanole, one of the boarders, at two o'clock this morning heard several shots and thought the sound came from Fred Bauer's room. He reported the occurrence to the police at eight o'clock this morning. When the police went to the room they found a suitcase containing the arms and legs of a man and the floor covered with human blood. In the clothes-hamper was found the trunk of the corpse. The head was missing. Later in the day some laborers found a head which fits the mutilated trunk on a pile of dirt. Fred Bauer has been arrested, but he denies all knowledge of the crime. A bloody razor has been found.

The body was identified as that of Thomas Corcoran, who resided with his sister and her husband, John McMurrough. It was identified by the latter, who said the victim left home at eight o'clock last night with a man named John Grout, a horse salesman. So far the police have found no trace of Grout. The coroner's examination showed that Corcoran was shot through the mouth, the bullet lodging in his brain. Bauer was arraigned this afternoon.

MAY YET CHALLENGE FOR AMERICAN CUP

Sir Ernest Cochrane Would Have Yacht from Here Taken to England for Races.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] New York, Oct. 12.—Sir Ernest Cochrane, the best known sporting baronet in Great Britain, with the exception of Sir Thomas Lipton, sailed for England today. He has been making a tour of the United States and is delighted with his visit. It is quite possible that Sir Ernest will be the next challenger for the America cup. He, however, objects to having the challenger brought across the ocean, which he believes damages the yacht. He thinks that Americans should build a yacht and race it in English waters, in which case he believes it would have no chance to win.

THREE FIREMEN MAY DIE FROM INJURIES

Chicago Fire Company Struck by a Street Car—Horses Are Killed; Men Hurt.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.] Chicago, Ill., Oct. 12.—Captain James Corcoran, Edward Herriek and William Morton, firemen, will probably die as a result of injuries this morning received from a collision of a hose-car with a street car. Two other firemen were badly hurt. The cart was thrown thirty feet and the horses killed.

THEODORE HAPKE IS KEEPING VERY BUSY

Is Erecting Three Beet Sugar Factories in Different Parts of the Country.

Theodore Hapke was in the city last evening and this morning for a few hours on business. Mr. Hapke is at the present time erecting three monster beet-sugar plants—one in Madison with six-hundred-ton capacity, one in western New York state with the same capacity and one in the Salt River valley of Arizona, near Phoenix, of eight hundred tons capacity. All three of these factories are to be ready for the nineteen hundred and six beet delivery and Mr. Hapke says that he has refused contracts to erect two more factories in different parts of the country next summer. At the Madison factory, while it is the same capacity as the Rock county factory, the buildings are much larger, making it possible to increase its capacity at any time in the future when occasion demands. Mr. LaFayette Myers, who recently removed to Arizona, is in charge of the work on the Salt River valley plant.

GIVES TESTIMONY AS EFFICIENCY OF MEN

Who Work in the Big Coal Mines of Pennsylvania—What is Necessary.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—Before the commissioners, hearing the evidence of the case of M. J. Shea, an anthracite miner, whose certificates the state's attorney of the third district of Pennsylvania, seeks to revoke, the witnesses this morning testified that no miner was competent in anthracite mines until he has at least had two years' experience. Shea was employed in bituminous mines in Illinois previous to going to Pennsylvania.

BRIGHT YOUNG LIFE ENDS THIS MORNING

Miss Alice Sanner Was Claimed by Death Shortly After Eleven O'clock Today.

After a long and painful illness extending over four years, Alice May Sanner, aged twenty-six years, passed her eternal rest shortly after eleven o'clock this morning at the home of her mother, Mrs. Adam Sanner, 254 Lincoln street. She bore her suffering with patience and fortitude and was willing to go when the angel of death called. Miss Sanner was a young woman of many excellent qualities of character and her many friends will deeply regret that death should have terminated a life so useful and sweet to those most closely attached to her. She has gone to join her father and brother, who recently taken, leaving a mother and a brother, Charles Sanner of Belvidere, Ill., to mourn her loss. The surviving relatives will receive the sympathy of their many friends. Notice of the funeral will be given later.

PROMISE LIGHT UPON MYSTERY

New Witnesses Have Been Called In Streed Case In Cambridge, Illinois.

DEPUTY TESTS THE POWDER BURNS

Officer Tells The Effect Of Discharging A Revolver At Various Distances From A Person Shot.

Cambridge, Ill., Oct. 12.—Another day's testimony in the inquest which is in progress to determine whether Attorney John V. Streed was murdered or committed suicide failed to penetrate the mystery. New witnesses, the nature of whose evidence the officers decline to give, have been summoned and it is believed by many the long-looked-for surprises are at hand.

Deputy Sheriff Swain, who was summoned as soon as the dying attorney was found by Arthur Crawford, was on the stand several hours. He has been active in the investigation of the mystery and his testimony covered many phases of the case. He said nothing had appeared at that time to cause him to think murder had been attempted, although he had paid careful attention to the surroundings.

Tells of Powder Experiments. Swain was asked in detail regarding experiments he had made since Streed's death to ascertain the effects of the powder when a revolver is fired at close range. These experiments were made when it was believed more powder burning would have shown in Streed's head had he fired the revolver. The officer stated that when he shot his revolver with the target only two inches away the powder burned a circle around the hole.

When the revolver was held six, seven or eight inches away, the powder circle was larger, but not so distinct, and discharged at a distance of eight feet to twenty inches the powder left little impression. In nearly every case the powder marks could be almost obliterated by rubbing. Former testimony showed that when Streed was shot, the powder circle was about the size of a dollar.

No make of cartridges has been discovered, said the officer, which shows a bullet of the weight of that which killed Streed.

Frank H. Streed, brother of the dead attorney, was recalled and was asked as to certain letters said to be missing. He declared he had found no letters in his brother's effects except those which have been given the coroner. Inquiry was made from this witness as to his brother's life insurance. It was stated policies amounting to $16,000 had been found, but on several of the mth payments had not been kept up and only $7,600 insurance is considered good. It is in fraternal orders and one old line company.

The latter part of the afternoon was spent in obtaining testimony from friends and neighbors of the dead attorney concerning his work and disposition. Those who were on the stand were Gust Eastland, F. O. Dahlberg, Almon H. Linn, Dr. J. A. Kirkland, one of the physicians who attended the dying man, and Mrs. Anna Nelson, a sister of Mr. Streed.

ELUDED PURSUERS BUT DID NOT WED

Young Couple from Country Gave Thomas Welch and Sister a Merry Chase Yesterday.

Romance had a decidedly commonplace finish in the case of one William Quigley and a Miss Kennedy, who were pursued to Janesville by an irate uncle of the girl last evening. They were located at the Railroad hotel by Officer Fanning at an early hour this morning, both registered independently of one another and still enjoying or fretting under single blessedness, as the case may have been.

Dramatis Personae. The girl, a brunette of 21 summers, is the daughter of Mrs. Kennedy, who lives with her brother, Thomas Welch, on his farm west of Janesville. She has been working recently at the Mc-Lay farm. William Quigley, who is a man about thirty-three or four years of age, with a dark mustache and beard, is employed on premises nearby and has become a devoted admirer of Miss Kennedy. His attentions, however, have not been approved by the mother and uncle of the young woman and they have not hesitated to say plainly that they did not regard him as a worthy young man.

Police Put Cupid to Rout. Yesterday Mrs. Kennedy drove to the Mc-Lay farm, got her daughter, and brought her to Janesville to do some shopping. The move appears to have been observed by Mr. Quigley, who forthwith decided that he had some shopping here also. The two met in this city late in the afternoon. As soon as Mrs. Kennedy caught sight of the man she called upon Officers Brown and Benke to interfere and use their efforts to induce the girl to have nothing to do with him and go right home with her. It required considerable argument, but the girl finally agreed and back they went to the Welch instead of the Mc-Lay home.

Escaped by a Window. Mr. Quigley was not to be robbed of his love-life in this unceremonious manner. He resisted the police interference. Straightway he sought out several liberties and endeavored to secure a rig but a number refused, notwithstanding the fact that he had money and proved it. Finally on West Milwaukee street he found one which would rent a horse and vehicle, providing one of its drivers were sent along to do the piloting. So, about eight o'clock he tarried forth with his coachman to the castle where the imprisoned one was awaiting deliverance. She made her exit through a window and soon the reunited lovers were speeding merrily along towards Janesville again.

Uncle in Swift Pursuit. The irate uncle did not discover the theft and got busy as quickly as they do in the story books or moving

EAGLES WILL LEASE THE MASONIC ROOMS

One Will Be Club Room, Other Meeting Hall—To Take Possession on November 1st.

Without a doubt the contract whereby the Janesville Aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles will lease the Masonic rooms in the Carle block for a term of seven years beginning November first of this year will be signed by representatives of the Eagles and Masons tomorrow. The Eagles will take possession immediately upon the commencement of their term and one room will be fitted out as a club apartment and the other as a meeting hall. The club-room will be luxuriantly and comfortably arranged and the hall decorated with the symbols of the organization. The Eagles expect to release their rooms in the Young America block, owned by John Myers, and it will probably be to the Trades Council. The "Masons," who have purchased the Court Street Methodist church property, will hold their sessions temporarily in one of the smaller rooms of the block until the church moves into the new building.

A permanent injunction against the United Mine Workers of America and individual members of the organization has been granted on petition of the Tennessee Consolidated Coal company, following the murder at Tracy City, Tenn., where the men are on strike.

ROOSEVELT IS NOT WEAKENING

ON HIS STAND TAKEN ON RAILROAD RATE QUESTION.

OTHER WASHINGTON GOSSIP

M. G. Jeffris Mentioned in National Capital as Successor to Congressman Cooper.

(By William Wolf Smith.)

Washington, D. C.—A tremendous revival of interest in the railroad rate problem has followed the return of President Roosevelt to Washington and his conferences with Senators and Representatives on the subject. Through the summer skillful efforts were assiduously made to create the impression that Roosevelt had changed his views and, realizing the opposition which his renewed championship of rate regulation would arouse in Congress, would refrain from pursuing his efforts to secure government regulation of rates and utilize his energy in other directions. Warnings that to press the matter meant party discord fraught with the possibility of loss of personal prestige by defeat at the hands of Congress, and that the strife might be the undoing of his party, were conveyed to the President during the summer, delicately in cases of personal attack, and bluntly through the medium of the press. Railroad presidents, corporation attorneys and others have flooded the country with professions of dire happenings to the people, the country and the Republican party unless the railroads were "let alone" and flattered themselves that the President had been influenced thereby.

It is consequently with much chagrin they note their wasted efforts and, awakening to the fact that Mr. Roosevelt has not changed his mind but on the contrary is more strongly convinced than ever of the necessity of the government taking a hand in the fixing of railroad rates at the earliest possible moment, they have turned attention to the hopeless task of fomenting a spirit of rebellion on the part of Congress. The railroads are, however, confronted by this unpleasant feature, that it is almost impossible for them to wane a single supporter from the President's policy while many of their friends are weakening. That they will be able to lay action is probable, and that they may make such a show of force as to compel a compromise is possible, but some action by Congress in the direction so urgently desired by three-fourths of the people seems at this time inevitable.

To Representative Townsend, of Michigan, Representative Prince, of Illinois and others who have recently called on him, President Roosevelt has reiterated his views on the regulation of railroad rates but has directly refrained from making a public statement of them. Nor is it likely he will do so as he has taken the ground that when Congress convenes he will say what he has to say in terms which cannot be misunderstood, using the annual message as a vehicle to express his thoughts. A characteristic Rooseveltian expression of opinion, bold, frank, and fearless, on the rate question is therefore anticipated. Meanwhile the fallacious theory industriously promulgated by the railroad literary bureaus that commercial organizations have been converted wholesale and will hereafter oppose instead of support the President's policy, has received a tremendous setback by the action of such bodies as the National Wholesale Druggists' Association, and National Carriage Builders' Association and similar organizations who have recently vigorously demanded rate legislation.

Senator Cullom of Illinois, the sage chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, is serenely confident of re-election. "I feel that the people of Illinois are with me, and I am confident that I shall be returned," said he. "I said four years ago that if the people of the State were with me the legislature would reflect me, I think that the sentiment in my favor is even stronger this time. At the beginning of the campaign I announced that there would be no scrambling for the place, that I should conduct my campaign on a higher plane. I still adhere to that intention, and I came here to Washington to go to work. I shall remain until next June, with one interruption: I shall attend the installation of President James at the University of Illinois during this month. As for Governor Deneen's position in this campaign, he will keep his hands off. He has said that he will remain on neutral ground and will not throw his entire strength to any one."

Nevertheless, Mr. Cullom will keep in close touch with the Illinois situation and is expected to deal with it in the somewhat unusual though not infrequent method of eliminating recognition by means of official recognition. For instance, as Ex-Governor Pils of Illinois will resign from the Interstate Commerce Commission, Governor Y. Sherman, Lieutenant Governor of Illinois, will probably receive Uncle Shelby's support and land the plum, while Hamilton of Chicago may be retained as a special attorney to assist in the prosecution of the beef packers.

Illustrating the prodigious wastefulness incidental to the publication of government documents, "Charley" Landis, chairman of the House Committee on Printing, tells of a member of Congress who received his quota of books on irrigation, handsomely and expensively bound and prettily illustrated. None of his constituents having an interest in irrigation he did not care to load the mails with the documents and offered to give them to any one who would haul them away. Having sought in vain for a recipient he finally employed a porter to carry them off and destroy them. Nor is this an extreme case, a member of Congress, retiring from the political arena, found to his amazement that he had more than 30,000 bound volumes of one kind and another to his credit in the House folding room. They had never been drawn by him and consequently had been accumulating during his term of office.

Representative E. L. Taylor, Jr., of the Columbus, Ohio, district, who is serving his first term in Congress, has been in Washington on departmental business. Mr. Taylor surrendered his position as prosecuting attorney to make the race against Representative Badger, whom he defeated. Mr. Taylor endorsed Senator Dick's resume of the Ohio situation when he said that the Democrats always carry Ohio in September and the Republicans in November, when the elections take place. Twelve years ago there were three Taylors from Ohio in Congress at the same time, but since then Representative Taylor is the first of that name to be elected, although Taylor of Ohio served several terms in Congress until he resigned to go on the Federal bench.

A good story concerning Senator Piles of Washington has been brought here by T. B. Hardin, of Seattle, who related it to a party at the Arlington hotel. "At an early stage in his career as a lawyer, our new Senator, Hon. Sam Piles, of whom all are exceedingly fond, made a reputation for cleverness and quickness of decision in an emergency that startled him on his subsequent pathway to professional and political fame," said Hardin.

"The future Senator was at that time located in the logging town of Snohomish on the river of the same name and a place frequented by all sorts and conditions of rough rivermen who made a living by the boating of logs. It seems that shortly after his arrival he was called on to defend a fellow who was charged with the larceny of some stuff from a flatboat and who sent for Piles at a most critical time. An old justice of the peace before whom the alleged thief had been brought happened to be the possessor of a volume of the United States statutes, from which he gathered the idea that the accused man had perpetrated the crime of piracy on the high seas. The punishment for this heinous crime was death, and while in the act of pronouncing that dread doom young Mr. Piles reached the scene."

"It took only a minute to see that rapid action was necessary. Assuming a severe look and speaking in a loud and menacing voice, he told the justice that he had made the colossal blunder of trying the prisoner under the Federal statutes instead of under the laws of the State; that by so doing he had trampled upon the authority of the United States court, and that if the matter were to come to the attention of the federal judge it would mean the forfeiture of the justice's office. It so happened that the justice, who was a shrewd fellow, turned white as a sheet, begged him to God's name to desist and immediately set Piles' client free. From that day to this Sam Piles has never wanted business, and for many years before his election to the United States Senate he was by common consent acknowledged one of the foremost lawyers of the Pacific coast."

The revelations last week of the astounding degree to which hypnosis has been carried in the administration of the affairs of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York has given impetus to the movement favoring federal control. The situation is very difficult to understand. On the one hand it is urged as a means of ridding the insurance companies of the evils with which they have been afflicted, that they be subjected to federal control. The natural presumption would be that this would be in the interest of the policyholders, but on the other hand the fact that the Mutual Life was the prime mover in the direction of federal control, seems to give the case another complexion. That Mr. McCurdy would delegate special Counsel Book to urge federal control for life insurance companies is such a revision of methods as would shake loose the various sons, sons-in-law, consins, nephews and other relatives who barbed-wire-enclosed the Mutual, does not sound reasonable. Snaps that pay one family in salaries and commissions same five million dollars in twenty years, to say nothing of reduced house rent, traveling expenses and the like, are not deliberately thrown away. We must therefore look further for an actuating cause to which the strong desire on the part of these companies for control by the federal government may be properly ascribed. Is it possible McCall, McCurdy and others believe it easier to deal with the legislative and insurance departments of the states and territories? And in this case does "easier" mean "cheaper"?

The contest for the succession to the mantle of Senator Alger of Michigan, which has been announced by him at the conclusion of his present term, promises to be interesting to an unusual degree. Eleven candidates are announced, being Wm. G. McMillan, son of the late Senator McMillan, whom Alger succeeded; Theron W. Atwood, railroad commissioner; G. A. Prescott, Secretary of State; F. P. Glazier, State Treasurer; Charles S. Osborn, Arthur Hill of Saginaw, Representative E. L. Hamilton, William Alden Smith, Samuel W. Smith and J. W. Fordney, together with Ex-Representative Henry Smith. It looks as though if the Smiths pulled together one of them should land the prize.

Representative Cooper of Wisconsin, Chairman of the House Committee on Insular Affairs, has returned from the Philippines where he went with Secretary Taft's party, to find a pretty fight on his hands. It revolves about the action of Mr. Cooper in assisting Senator Governor La Follette, and the possibility that the contest over the postmasterhip at Beloit, Wisconsin, if Mr. Cooper displaces the present postmaster he will offend him and his friends, and if he does not he will lose the support of the other candidate and his following. M. G. Jeffris is prominently mentioned as Mr. Cooper's successor.

WOULD BE FORCED TO ABANDON GAME

Said Superintendent Buell Unless Football Candidates Showed Better Spirit.

Yesterday morning Superintendent Buell in speaking before the high school scholars during the opening period of ten minutes, severely criticized the spirit that has been shown during the past week among the candidates for the football eleven. He reprimanded the boys for their lack of school support and desire for personal achievement, for their indifference to the assistance offered them by the coach and in some cases even the disobedience of his orders. He also said that unless the number of aspirants, faithful in practice, increased over the number that have been in evidence on the field during the last few afternoons, that football would have to be abandoned for the year. The talk had its effect and last evening, something like the number that were candidates two weeks ago, turned out in uniforms for practice. Tomorrow the team will go to Milton Junction to meet the high school eleven of that place.

Smith-Marshall—How much that expression is abused, so much so that Smith-Marshall has been some time before making use of it, but there not being any other way to describe specialties and entertainment as a whole, they were really forced to use it, trusting that the public could and would in time readily discern the difference between the real and the counterfeit and always connect the name Smith-Marshall with the real. They certainly have outdone themselves this season and present an attraction without a flaw. This is their first trip through Wisconsin, and as Mr. Marshall said to our representative: "We want to come again and again, and each time that we come we want you to find us better. You probably have seen motion pictures, but to see the latest, up-to-date motion pictures you must come and see ours." The company appear at the Myers Grand Opera House for an engagement of two nights and a Saturday matinee, commencing Friday night, October 13th.

ELMER TARRANT IS NOW A BIG RANCHER

Former Janesville Man Now on a Visit Here, Has Purchased 2,200 Acre Tract in North Dakota.

Elmer Tarrant, formerly identified with the local livery firm of Tarrant & Kennerly, who is here from St. Paul, where he recently marketed 1,900 head of sheep, has purchased 2,200 acres of land in the extreme western section of North Dakota, within sixty-five miles of the Montana line. He says that land in the vicinity of his tract is selling from $4 to $20 an acre, though it is over thirty miles from the nearest railroad station.

In "Herpicide," the New Scientific And Successful Dandruff Treatment.

Have you dandruff? Then you have a contagious parasitic disease, unpleasant, unhealthy and one that will eventually lead to baldness. To cure it you must destroy the parasite that eats at the root of the hair. The only preparation for destroying these germs is Newbro's Herpicide. Chas. Klein, of Lawrence, Mo., says: "Herpicide alleviated the itching, cured the dandruff and stopped my hair's falling out; it is bringing a new crop of hair." Herpicide is free from grease of dangerous drugs, and makes hair glossy and soft as silk. One bottle will convince you of its merits. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

FOOD COMMISSION STATES ITS SIDE

OBJECTS TO HEAD LINES IN MONDAY'S GAZETTE.

A NEW PHASE OF QUESTION

J. Q. Emery Writes to The Gazette Relative to the Local Butchers' Troubles.

State Dairy and Food Commissioner J. Q. Emery feels that an injustice has been done both himself and the state dairy and food commission in an article published in the Gazette on Monday relative to the arrest of four local butchers for selling sausage alleged to contain coloring matter and boric acid or salts thereof. The heading used, "May Overstep Their Authority," Mr. Emery feels is misleading to the public and he sends the following communication to the Gazette. In part it is as follows:

Editor Janesville Daily Gazette, Janesville, Wis.

Dear Sir: My attention has been called to an article in the Daily Gazette for Tuesday, October 10, with the heading, "May Overstep Their Authority." Following that heading is a "write-up" of the prosecution brought in the municipal court of Janesville, by my assistant, Mr. J. C. Moore, against certain Janesville meat dealers, for selling adulterated sausages. I submit, Mr. Editor, that there is nothing in the statement made in the article to warrant the heading, "May Overstep Their Authority." This commission knows its authority and has not the slightest inclination to "overstep" it. There is vastly more work than we can do within our legal authority without seeking fields of cases beyond our authority.

October 2, under my direction, Mr. Moore gathered samples of sausage from fifteen different markets in the city of Janesville. These samples were submitted to the chemist for this commission, Dr. Fischer, who found five of them to contain boric acid or a salt thereof, and three of the five in addition to boric acid contained artificial coloring, in violation of Chapter 243 of the laws of 1901, as amended by Chapter 267, of the laws of 1904, which prohibits the sale of chopped meat or sausage containing any artificial coloring, or chemical preservative or antiseptic, except common salt, saltpeter or wood smoke.

The citizens of Janesville are entitled to the protection of this law, as much as are the citizens of other cities of this state, and this commission is not "overstepping its authority" in its effort to gain for the citizens of Janesville through their municipal court the protection of that statute.

Of the eighteen samples taken by Mr. Moore, only five were found to contain unlawful substances. Thirteen samples were lawful. Not only have the citizens of Janesville the right to the protection of law, but meat dealers who are selling lawful products have also the right to the protection of law against the competition of unlawful products. The Gazette article seems to set the guarantee of certain Chicago manufacturers of meat products, against the law of the state. God pity the citizens of this state, if our legislature should abrogate to Chicago manufacturers of meat products its function of furnishing protection to our citizens.

The complaint made in the municipal court against the Janesville meat dealers does not charge them with "intent to violate the law. We are not required to prove intent; the element of intent is eliminated from the food laws of this state, and from the other states of the union. The food laws of this state and of this country make the dealers responsible for the purity of their products, and requires them to know and be certain. The courts of the country hold that the injury to the public is not dependent upon the intent of the dealer.

This commission feels entitled to the unbiased support of the citizens and the press of Wisconsin in its legal efforts to protect the citizens of the state against adulterated food products, by the enforcement of our food laws. Respectfully yours,

J. Q. EMERY, Dairy & Food Commissioner.

RESTAURANT TERROR IS SENT TO ASYLUM

Richard James Lester, Who Created Scene in McDonald's in Fall of 1903, Pronounced Insane.

Richard James Lester, a farm-hand, who terrorized the McDonald restaurant with a revolver on the night of October 11, 1903, and was subsequently sent to Waupun for two years for stealing a shotgun, was examined in county court yesterday, adjudged insane, and committed to the asylum at Mendota, whither he was taken at noon. The man had betrayed symptoms of an unbalanced mind since his release from prison and another outbreak was feared. He is thirty-six years of age and unmarried.

Fireman J. B. Kaufman is laying off.

Engineer J. W. Coen is off duty.

Engineer A. R. Talmage is taking a layoff.

Engineer D. R. Dunwaldt is off duty.

St. Paul Road.

Thirty-five cars of sugar beets were brought into the city from surrounding towns last night.

Engineer Edwin Smith went out on the Chicago way freight this morning relieving engineer R. J. Casey.

Three switch-engines are now being used in the local yards. The third locomotive was put in service this morning with three switchmen.

Blackman Richard Berry has returned to work after a two weeks' vacation.

Richard Dunn relinquished his position at the roundhouse last evening and will go to work at the plant of the Rock County Sugar company.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad has just purchased for $775,000 165 acres of property on the water front at Tacoma. In all the company has spent more than $1,000,000 for terminal facilities there. It is now admitted by officials of the company that its plan is to extend the St. Paul system to Tacoma as rapidly as is warranted by the development of the country between South Dakota and the Puget Sound.

On October 20 the Interstate Commerce Commission will be given a hearing at Washington in the case of the National Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association of America against the Santa Fe railroad and twenty other systems. The complaint involves freight charges on alcohol, high wines and spirits and the rate on whiskey from East and Middle West points to Pacific coast terminals.

A record is being made in the construction of the Indiana Harbor road from Chicago to Danville. Two large firms have been at work on the new line since May 1, and it is announced that it will be open for traffic by December 1, 1905. The line will be one hundred and fifteen miles long and will be double-tracked and low-grade all the way.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad has completed arrangements for putting into operation on October 15, a through express train between New York and Chicago to carry oysters. The train will be known as the "Oyster special" and will be run on a passenger schedule.

Car shortage is becoming annoying in the industrial life of Pittsburgh, Pa. Mountains of ore on Lake Erie and needed in Western Pennsylvania await transportation.

The magnificent passenger terminal of the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio at Washington will come into partial use next spring, it is announced, and in a year will be entirely completed.

Steamships plying between Mobile and New Orleans have increased their rates for passenger service and railroads will do likewise from points north of the Ohio river.

SIMPLE REMEDY FOR CATARRH

Just Breathe Hyomei Four Times a Day and Be Cured.

Hyomei has performed almost miraculous cures of catarrh, and is today recognized by leading members of the medical profession as the only advertised remedy that can be relied upon to do just what it claims. The complete outfit of Hyomei costs $1.00, and consists of an inhaler, a medicine dropper, and a bottle of Hyomei.

Breathe Hyomei through the inhaler for a few minutes four times a day, and it will cure the worst case of catarrh. It soothes and heals the mucous membrane of the air passages, prevents irritation and effects a complete and lasting cure. In Janesville there are scores of well known people who have been cured of catarrh by Hyomei. If it does not cure you, the People's Drug Co. will return the money you pay for Hyomei. This is the strongest evidence that can be offered as to their faith in the remedy.

THE BIRTH

of the Genuine Round Oak thirty-four years ago marked the change in heating of stoves from crudity to perfection. No other stove will burn all kinds of fuel with economy, success and satisfaction to the user.

In using coal, for instance, it has a double fire pot with cone-center grate, which prevents the formation of clinkers and gives the hottest fire around the outside of fire pot, instead of in the center.

It has a hot blast, used for soft coal only.

The air is taken in at the feed door, carried around the top of the fire pot and discharged on top of fire through a series of openings. This burns the soot and gases, and makes the smoke white, thus a steady, even fire can be maintained with the hot blast alone, burning coal from the top-downward.

Then, for hard coal with or without magazine, and coke or wood, it is equally successful.

You simply cannot afford to pass the ROUND OAK by, if you need a heating stove.

Always look for the name "ROUND OAK" on the leg. There are hundreds of imitations.

"Yes, Fritz, you guessed it. That is the Round Oak Office Building. Tomorrow we will see the shops where the Round Oaks are made."

H. L. McNAMARA

== FORTY YEARS AGO ==

Janesville Daily Gazette, Thursday, October 12, 1865.—The Madison telegraphic correspondent of the Chicago Journal, says in a dispatch in reference to the synod now in session in that city:

"The opening sermon was preached by Rev. Charles Thompson of Janesville, one of the most talented young men in the state. It contained severe criticisms of the follies in the fashionable churches."

City Items.—A branch of an apple tree, about a foot in length, left in our office by Mr. G. A. Slocum, had on it six apples which weighed three pounds. Who can make a better "bough" than that?

The case of arbitration which we spoke of a day or two since, involved, we understand, about $90. The expense of deciding the case is likely to reach at least about $450.

Personal.—We copy the following complimentary allusion to a gentleman well known in this city, from the Leavesworth Observer:

Companions F. H. K. and L. of the Third Wisconsin Cavalry, left on the 18th last evening for their homes in Wisconsin, under command of Capt. Pond. That State may be proud of the regiment to which these companions belong.

They came to our State early in the struggles of our Government, and have departed themselves nobly in every emergency. The companies alluded to have been stationed on the southwest border of Missouri, near Fort Scott, most of the time for the past three years and have done gallant service in operating against the guerrillas in that locality. During the years of 1862 and '63 they occupied the country between Fort Scott to Neosho and Cow Skin rivers, Capt. Pond having discretionary command of that entire range of country, operating against the notorious Quantrill, Livingston, Humbart and Marchbanks, who, when mustered, could concentrate a force five times their number. At Baxter Springs, October 6th, 1862, with part of companies C and D (now H and I) of this regiment, Capt. Pond fought and repulsed Quantrill with five hundred men; and the many other brave exploits of this little band will be held in grateful memory by the citizens of Kansas and Missouri in the dark hour of trouble and danger. Capt. Pond has many warm friends here, particularly among members of the "art preservative" of which he is an honorable representative, who regret his departure and earnestly hope that he may return for a permanent abode in our city.

..COMING ATTRACTIONS..

Widely diverging from the beaten track and far removed from the stereotyped run of musical comedies is the plot of "The Geeser of Geck," which comes to this city on Wednesday, Oct. 18, where it will play an engagement at the Myers House.

The motive of this attraction is to provide laughter to those risibly inclined and at the same time entertain those who are fond of music and its accompaniments. With this in view a superior cast, headed by a score of principals, including Dave Lewis, Amelia Stone, Toby Lyons, Mae Taylor, Nena Blake, Henry Norman, John Park and John Keef and a superb singing force of sixty beautiful girls, were engaged and as a result Chicago rapturously received this production and it is with this selfsame original cast that comes to this city.

Guy Bates Post who is "featured" in "The Heir to the Hoop" did a Hercules stunt during the last week of his engagement at the Hudson theater, New York City, and thereby saved an automobile full of people from sliding over a precipice into the Hudson river. Consequently Mr. Post spent his summer vacation in Dr. Bull's private hospital in New York and was made the subject of much surgical investigation. Mr. Post did not know he had an appendix verformis until the specialists had finished correcting the damage incident to the automobile disaster, and it is needless to say he hasn't any now.

SAME OLD GRAFT OF SPANISH FORTUNES

Old Swindle with But Little Variation Tried on Unsuspecting People.

Despite the efforts of the United States government secret service operations the good-time swindle that has been used for many years by smooth sharpers to gull the unsuspecting citizen is again going the rounds. Letters have been received intimating that a fortune waits the recipient in far off Valencia, Spain. Manuel Garcia, claiming to be a relative, and alleging an estate in money to the amount of $195,000 deposited in the bank of England, intimates to the recipient that he will be willing to bestow a liberal slice of this wealth on him if he will act as the protector of Garcia's daughter, who is a pensioner at the college of St. Elma. Garcia's relatives at some length in the letter his troubles and afflictions, brought on as he alleges by his joining the rebellion in Cuba in behalf of the republic. Through the treason of some parties, he was compelled to emigrate to England, taking his fortune with him, which through prudent investment had reached the comfortable sum of $195,000. This amount in certificates of deposit is now in the bank of England awaiting his pleasure.

Garcia claims that his wife died recently and through love for his daughter he hastened to Spain, only to be arrested by the military authorities and thrown into a dungeon at Carthage. Only through the chaplain of the castle is he able to communicate with the recipient, who is instructed to address the go-between in his response.

Garcia claims that his equipment and portmanteau, in whose secret recesses are stowed away those certificates of deposit, are held by the Spanish authorities as a guarantee for the payment of the costs incurred by his arrest. The wealthy Spaniard, who claims to have married a relative of the recipient, evidently expects his American cousin to remit at once, for he says "when the costs of my progress are paid I expect to send my daughter to your house also the equipment and later get my capital and my wife and I am content to grant it to my daughter, Emily, and a part for you and your family as a just reward."

Short breath, pain around heart, palpitation, fluttering, dizzy, fainting and smothering spells should not be neglected. Take Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and see how quick you will be relieved.

It cannot make a new heart, but will restore a sick one by strengthening the heart nerves and muscles, relieving the unnatural strain, and restoring its vitality.

"I had a very bad case of heart trouble. For six months I could not work. Last July I was plowing corn and feeling bad all day. In the afternoon in plowing one row I had to lay down, or fall down, three times. My heart throbbed as though it would burst through, and I had difficulty in getting my breath. I purchased a bottle of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and before I had used half of it I could lay down and sleep all night. Previously I had to get up from five to ten times a night. I had taken several bottles, and my heart is as regular as clock work. I feel like a new man, and can work considerable for an old man."

Fair and warmer.

"An example easy to be imitated in its faults" is that of a store-advertiser who uses a page of space on one day and a quarter column on another—store expenses, in other directions being as great on one day as the other, and "necessary income" remaining unchanged.

There's nothing the matter with Janesville, to people who are satisfied with conditions, and the most of us are.

The president believes that slugging should be abolished from the game of football and the sentiment will be endorsed by everybody but the slugger.

The great surplus advertised by life insurance companies appears to have been treated like a joke by the men who held it in trust. The McCurdy family seem to have been reasonably prosperous, and distant relatives were not overlooked. There is some virtue in being good to your friends.

The war on bologna sausage, just now being conducted in the interests of pure food, promises to be a revelation. The innocent bologna has long enjoyed the reputation of being fearfully and wonderfully made, and usually able to bark for itself. The acid story takes all the romance out of the tempting viand.

If the business men of Janesville believe that the Madison interurban line should be built, they should use their influence with the council for a favorable franchise. If Mr. Parson takes hold of the enterprise, it will mean business and the attitude of the city will have much to do with results.

Mayor Dunne of Chicago has decided not to buy the traction companies this year. Unforeseen circumstances have caused him to change the program. This is a disappointment to the mayor, but very satisfactory to the tax payers. Men sometimes bite off more than they can masticate and the mayor was a victim in this sort of an appetite.

WHAT THE NEWSPAPERS ARE.
The Milwaukee Journal, in answer to a correspondent, prints a few of the striking things that great men have said about newspapers.

Bryant said:
"The press is good or evil, according to the character of those who direct it. It is a mill that grinds all that is put into its hopper. Fill the hopper with poisoned grain, and it will grind it to meal; but there is death in the bread."

James Parton said:
"The newspaper press is the people's university. Half the readers in Christendom read little else."

Jefferson said:
"The basis of our government being the opinion of the people, the very first object should be to keep that right; and were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers, or newspapers without a government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter."

Cardinal Gibbons recently said:
"The dread of exposure in the public press keeps many a man sticking close to the path of rectitude who otherwise would stray off into the byways of graft."

"The bright spot is the fact that the degradation is made known. Corruption cannot exist nowadays without being discovered after awhile. The greater the evil, the greater the possibility of remedy. And that possibility of remedy has now become such an assured fact that it counterbalances, almost, the evil which the present condition of money madness creates."

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH JANESVILLE?

The sub-topics discussed at the Twilight Club last Tuesday evening, while interesting and instructive, failed to bring out, except by suggestion, the real elements of weakness which retard the growth of the city.

The census may not have been stuffed to meet the requirements, but it is extremely doubtful if many citizens were overlooked.

There is no evidence that the town has suffered from "Railway Discrimination." In fact the railroads have spent money freely for permanent improvements, and have shown a friendly disposition to encourage new industries.

"Taxation" is always a debatable problem, but Janesville is not heavily burdened with taxes, and about the only complaint, along this line, comes from men who are property poor.

"The lid on or off" is supposed to have reference to the morals of the city, but the lid has been off so long, that when it was restored, in a spasm of reform, the city was short of weight, sufficient to hold it down, and we, the people, have expressed ourselves as satisfied to let nature take its course, while the lid has been lost in the shuffle.

"The Advancement Association," God bless the boys, is yet in its infancy. What it may or may not accomplish depends very largely upon the character of the moral and substantial support which it receives.

Go out on the street and ask the first dozen men you meet, "What's the matter with Janesville?" and the universal reply, in an injured tone, will be: "Janesville, why there's nothing the matter with Janesville. A good town for business, no better place for a home, a quiet place to die, and an inviting cemetery, for a final resting place, just outside the limits. There's nothing the matter with Janesville."

The argument is strong and conclusive, and you go back into your shell and wonder at the audacity which prompted the question.

Janesville is growing, just naturally growing, and no power on earth can stop it. The city had a population forty-two years ago of $3,700. The average increase has been at the rate of one hundred a year. This increase shows a slight advance during the past five years, owing to President Roosevelt's influence, for it is now considered the proper thing to have a baby or two in the home.

If you don't believe the town is growing from natural causes, go up in the third ward and see the swarms of children that infest that part of the city.

Janesville is alright, and it is just as large as a majority of the citizens desire to have it.

A prominent manufacturer said a while ago: "What advantage would it be to me if the city doubled in population. It would simply mean doubling my taxes, and while it might increase the value of my home, that would be of no benefit. The city is large enough now."

The same sentiment was expressed by a merchant when he said: "Why should the business men of Janesville be taxed to advertise their business? If they would all keep quiet and take what comes to them and be satisfied, they would all make more money."

This is a popular sentiment, and religiously observed by men who are satisfied with the business they are doing and have no ambition to enlarge.

It's all a mistaken notion that there's anything the matter with Janesville. The people are contented and happy. They take time to live, and when they die at a ripe old age consolation is found in the fact that they were not crowded from the stage of action by the rapid march of a frenzied procession.

The young men who are attempting to boom the city will find it less difficult to secure new industries than to upset contented conditions.

The man who is satisfied with himself, is always a hard man to convince by argument, and when a city assumes the same attitude about the only thing left which contains a ray of hope, is a season of prayer for deliverance.

The Gazette has been talking to the people of Janesville for sixty years. It has recorded births and deaths with daily regularity, as well as the gossip and news of the day.

The paper has grown old with the town, and the atmosphere of content, which has long enveloped the place, has had its influence, for the discovery has been made that while "you can lead a horse to water, you can't make him drink."

An effort has been made to reflect public sentiment rather than to mould it, for the notion was long since abandoned that the press can transform public sentiment.

The paper would be glad to see the city grow. It would be glad to see old enterprises more loyally supported and new ones encouraged.

It would be glad to see every BUS-GALLEY 2

ness man a hustler, and on the alert to increase his trade.

It would be glad to see the population doubled in the next ten years, and the paper is confident that all of these things could be accomplished if the people desire them. What is your verdict?

PRESS COMMENT.

Winneconne Local: The open season will soon begin for farmers to chase city sportsmen out of their fields with jabs from a pitchfork.

Chicago News: Beer and whiskey are not the only things for which Milwaukee and Peoria are becoming respectively famous just now.

Fond du Lac Commonwealth: The full weather, though somewhat delayed in transmission, seems to have arrived and the coal dealers will accordingly cheer up a bit.

Milwaukee Sentinel: It has been decided by the newspaper court that when it comes to calling an extra session of the legislature Governor La Follette can do as he gosh darn pleases.

New Orleans Times-Democrat: Nowadays every shallow and affected young girl wants to "study art." Simplicity what she ought to study, if she but knew it.

Chicago Record-Herald: Yale freshmen now amuse themselves by sitting in windows and dropping pieces of burning paper on people who pass below. The parents of some of those freshmen probably honestly believe that they will become great men some day, too.

Exchange: The Fargo Forum objects to the quality of whiskey sold in North Dakota. It says: "The brand of conversation water peddled by the bootleggers this year is said to be the limit and then some. It is made of alcohol, rainwater and brown sugar."

Milwaukee Sentinel: Said the presiding elder at the M. E. conference at Freeport, Ill., yesterday: "I tell myself has its center in Chicago and sends its antennae distributing pollution all round the city." So it seems our grand jury report was mistaken about the location of the center.

Sheboygan Journal: The mayor of Janesville told the chief of police of that city to tell the saloon keepers there is a Sunday closing law there and that it would be enforced. Then the mayor, according to the dispatches, went out of town. There is at least one wise man in Janesville.

Exchange: Some French anglers use a tiny mirror attached to the line near the baited hook. The idea is that the fish, seeing itself reflected, hastens to snatch the bait from its supposed rival. Very successful results have been obtained through the employment of this unique device.

Green Bay Gazette: Those congressmen in sympathy with the rail-ways might just as well know first as last that they have a tussle coming with Teddy when they get down to business at Washington this winter. He is going to have a rate commission bill or know the reason why.

Sheboygan Journal: The city officials of Manitowish are unable to extend aid to a needy old couple because they hold a note for $175, and are not paupers within the meaning of the law. Sheboygan city officials have long been puzzled by a similar case, in which one of its citizens needs help cannot be aided because he owns a city lot that is mortgaged almost to its full value, and which is worse than nothing to him.

Fond du Lac Commonwealth: It's a queer condition of affairs, certainly, when a crowd will cheer a criminal of the Pat Crowe type, and yet, that is said to have happened at Omaha, Monday, when this self-confessed criminal was taken through the streets to the jail. Crowe is thus permitted to pose as a hero, and the influence is anything but wholesome.

Oshkosh Northwestern: A Chicago paper sent out four young women to ride in the street cars of that city during the rush hours, instructing each of them to hand a check for $25 to the first man who offered her a seat. Strange to relate, however, when the young women returned from their first day's experiment, not one of them had been "deprived of her check." Evidently the men of Chicago must be a very ingenuous lot, and not to be tempted by the chance of getting $25 for nothing more than a fluke courtesy.

Chicago Chronicle: Governor La Follette's brother is quoted as saying that it is "the cause" to which the governor is devoted and that he will gladly retire from both the gubernatorial chair and take to the lecture platform if convinced that he can best serve "the cause" in that way. On the whole, perhaps that will be best. When he gets out of official life his "cause" will have to stand on its merits, deriving no support from his official station and power.

New York Press: The man who sells ice at retail never was known to give correct weight since the Emperors froze over in the summer of 4004 B. C., and Adam was his own ice-man. Manufactured ice, call it by any name you please, is a delight to gaze upon, but it does not shed its cold. If you are desirous of having the temperature of your refrigerator below 44 degrees but snow ice is soft and almost slushy after a while, but it "sheds its cold." Of course, cold in confinement is not cold; it must be released to produce results. Snow ice, however, is not fit for use in food drinks nor should it ever be put in water for drinking purposes.

Superior Telegram: The great thing needed at the state university is less rowdism and more learning. Shirt-tail parades only make the "U" ridiculous, but murder makes it criminal. We quote from the Minneapolis Journal a fair sample of what outside newspapers are saying about the "U." The journal says: "Only two students will die as the result of the class fight at Madison. The humor of the plan of throwing the fatality hurt into the lake was considered rich. All Madison is smiling over the prank."

"Savage Deal" in Football.

Evening Wisconsin: President Roosevelt is the apostle of the "strenuous life," but he is also a conspicuous advocate of the "square deal." It is in both characters at once—the two are essentially harmonious and happily complement each other—that he takes a hand in the reformation of football. Experts from Yale and Harvard were in consultation with him on the subject at the White House yesterday, and the tenor of the talk was that brutality on the football field must be stopped. Here is the Rooseveltian creed and platform on the subject of football: "I believe in out-door games and I do not mind in the least that they are rough games, or that those who take part in them are occasionally injured. I have no sympathy whatever with the overwrought sentimentality that would keep a young man in cotton wool, and I have a hearty contempt for him if he counts a broken arm or collarbone as of serious consequence when balanced against the chance of showing that he possesses hardihood, physical address, and courage. But when these injuries are inflicted by others, either wantonly or of set design, we are confronted by the question, not of damage to one man's body but of damage to the other man's character. Brutality in playing a game should awaken the heartiest and most plainly shown contempt for the player guilty of it, especially if this brutality is coupled with a low cunning in committing it without getting caught by the umpire. I hope to see both graduated and undergraduate opinion come to scorn such a man as one guilty of base and dishonorable action, who has no place in the regard of gallant and upright men."

REV. V. B. CHRISTY OF OHIO, HERE SUNDAY

Father of Rev. Christy of This City Will Occupy St. Peter's Lutheran Church Pulpit Sunday Morning.
Rev. V. B. Christy of Miamburg, Ohio, father of Rev. W. P. Christy of this city, will occupy the pulpit at the morning service next Sunday at St. Peter's English Lutheran church. Rev. Christy is a delegate from his synod in the east to the meeting in Milwaukee of the General Council of the English Lutheran church of America, which sessions opened this morning. Although no doctrinal questions are to be decided, the meeting is of much importance in the Lutheran church, forty delegates, besides other visiting pastors and laymen, from all over the country being in attendance. Rev. W. P. Christy of this city left for Milwaukee this morning to be in attendance at the sessions.

ENJOYING JUNKET ON THE DRAINAGE CANAL

Party of Janesville Men Are Enjoying Operations of Hayes Bros. in Vicinity of Chicago Today.

Early this morning a party of Janesville business men departed for Chicago, from whence they are to enjoy a junket along the drainage canal as guests of the Hayes Bros. Civil Engineer Harry Jackson was to meet the party at the station and escort them to the dock where a launch will be in readiness for the trip on the canal. The power-house which the Messrs. Hayes are building, as well as their work in fulfilling the big contract for deepening the waterways, will be inspected. Those invited to make up the party were: Geo. D. Simpson, W. C. Wheeler, W. H. Greenman, Geo. M. McKee, C. S. Putnam, V. P. Richardson, C. S. Jackson, H. G. Carter, P. J. Mount, H. H. Bliss, Alfred Jones, T. S. Nolan, and George Thomas. Most of the party are expected home tonight.

CARNIVAL IS IN FULL SWING TODAY

Milton Junction Holds a Harvest Festival That is Very Interesting.

Milton Junction, Oct. 12.—The much talked-of Harvest Festival for Milton Junction has become a reality and is now in full swing with its many and varied attractions. The carnival is under the supervision of a local committee, who have succeeded in gathering many first-class attractions. Special police are patrolling the streets day and night and announce that no drunkenness or rowdiness will be tolerated even though it is a week of rejoicing. While it is yet too early to form any estimate it is thought that there will be a large attendance before the fair closes Saturday evening. Special free attractions have been engaged by the committee for each day including a football game between Milton Junction and Janesville teams on Friday afternoon.

Buy Livery Barn: A. Plagier of the town of Janesville has purchased the livery equipment and business of Joseph Burns. Mr. Burns, who was to have left for Los Angeles, California, yesterday, expects to go Monday next in company with Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Mahoney and Mr. and Mrs. George Devins.

Malta-Vita

"The Perfect Food"

Some food is good to eat but not healthful. Other food is healthful but not good to eat—Malta-Vita is both healthful and good to eat. It is all of the wheat and contains every element necessary to the sustenance of the human body. It develops and nourishes the brain, the nerves, the bones, the muscle and the blood. It fills all the requirements of a food and it is so fresh and crisp that it is just the best you ever tasted. It is absolutely pure grain and contains no foreign sweetening substance. Physicians recommend it as the most healthful food known. It's always ready to eat. At all grocers. Now 10c.

MISS BEULAH LOGAN'S PARENTS FIRST WHITES IN MICRONESIA

Her Father Reduced Language to an Alphabet—She Speaks at Prayer Meeting Tonight.

Janesville people will be interested in knowing that the father and mother of Miss Beulah Logan, the missionary now visiting in the city, were the first white people to visit Micronesia and the father reduced the language of the natives to an alphabet and printed for them their first books, with a hand press. Miss Logan will speak at the prayer meeting at the Congregational church this evening. She spoke before the women's missionary societies this afternoon.

Occupies A Unique Position

When you set out to buy anything of value, you take into consideration two things—1st. Quality. 2d. Price. If by any means you can secure the BEST of quality combined with a MODERATE price you are making your money go the farthest and have a comfortable feeling as well. Now, it is the same exactly in DENTISTRY. You can strike this HAPPY COMBINATION in Janesville by placing your dental work in the hands of Dr. Richards. He has been in practice here about five years and occupies a UNIQUE position. He does the VERY BEST of dental work and sets a MODERATE price thereon, trusting to the natural increase in VOLUME of business to more than make up the matter to him financially. He also makes successful effort to prevent the usual pain and agony experienced in the dental chair. The doctor has had over 500 people give him their freely offered testimonials, that he actually did their work PAINLESSLY. What he has done for them he can do for YOU.

An umbrella with combination cover instead of all silk is much more serviceable. Merchants of repute guarantee the covers for a year, if of combination quality.

The handles shown in the Fall lines are mostly pearl with gold plated mountings—some solid silver trimmings are used. The swell handle is the all gold, chased or the heavy embossed silver in grey finish.

Colors are passe for the present—blacks and black with a bit of white border are the correct thing.

Gentlemen use the buck and horn handles—the 27- and 28-inch are used the most.

PLUNGED THROUGH A PLATE GLASS PANE

Charles Chase Tripped and Fell Through McNamara Window Front Last Evening.

While on his way home at 6:30 last evening, Charles Chase, a well-known business man identified with the Janesville Wholesale Grocery Co., stumbled a toe on the iron grating in front of the McNamara hardware store and plunged head-first through the plate-glass window, breaking it into fragments. Though he was buried in the wreckage he miraculously escaped injury. The glass was fully covered by insurance against accident. The building is owned by Hayes Bros.

MORNING CALLS EXTREMELY FEW

SMALL NUMBER OF BOOKS ARE DRAWN FROM LIBRARY

DURING THE "OPEN HOURS"

Branch Libraries Established in Grades of the Public Schools—Increase in Reading Noticeable.

So few have been the calls made at the library between ten o'clock in the morning and noon, the open morning hours which were recently established for the benefit of an army of petitioners, that the librarians are a bit disappointed. In fact as large a number as fifteen books have never been drawn in one morning thus far and the number of persons using the reading room and the reference library has not exceeded five. This is a little discouraging after the great influx of requests was complied with but the open hours in the morning will nevertheless not be abandoned. It is believed that people will get used to coming in the morning in time and as a result the circulation of volumes will be increased. Then also the women's clubs, for the work of which the reference books are popular, have not commenced their winter work. Many of these organizations are now holding their preliminary meetings and the first regular sessions will come in about two weeks.

School Libraries. To assist in the circulation of books of good character among the children, a series of school libraries are now being used. In every grade of the public school above the third and below the eighth, except those of the Jefferson school, a shelf of a dozen volumes has been placed. These books are all duplicates of the best in the children's room and are given out on library cards by the teachers. Some parents object to their children, many being still unable to care for themselves on the business streets, going as far as the library and thus the advantages of that institution are taken to those who cannot go for them. The Jefferson school being so near the library it was thought needless to establish these "branch libraries" there. The books were selected by the grade teachers and Miss Rose Hathorn, children's librarian. While this keeps a few of the young patrons of the library away from the reading room for a time it will add many children to the list of those who are receiving the benefits of recreative study.

Circulation Increases. During the month of September the circulation of books from the main library increased materially over the circulation of August, while in the children's library the number of volumes drawn was nearly doubled. In June there were taken from the main library 1831 volumes; in July 2021; in August 2164; in September 2215. This shows a steady increase since the great falling off that occurred in April and May when the winter rush ended. The present cold snap will doubtless affect the number of books subscribed, enlarging it steadily. In the children's room the totals differed in comparison. In June the number was 957; in July 801; in August 729; in September 1498. The influence of two weeks of school is noticeable in the June total, while vacation cut down the number of books read to a great extent in July and August. The opening of school always marks a sudden change. Then the scholars are refreshed from ten weeks' rest and their hunger for reading is not satiated by their lessons. Each scholar is also furnished with a "ladder," a list of good books, to climb and he or she usually attempts to reach the upper rung.

BURGLAR WAS GIVEN A WARM RECEPTION

R. C. Inman Took a Shot at Man Who Entered His Sleeping Apartment Last Night.

Gaining entrance through a rear door, sometime after twelve last evening, a burglar made his way to the second floor of R. C. Inman's home on Racine street to find the householder awaiting him with a revolver in hand. The invader had no sooner entered the sleeping chamber than Mr. Inman opened fire, causing him to alter all previous plans and dive for the stairway. When Officers Brown and Bear arrived on the scene he was far from the scene of the fusillade. Nothing of value had been taken from the house and there were no pools of gore to attest to the marksmanship of the sleeper whose slumbers had been so rudely disturbed.

SELLING MINING STOCK ON THE NEW ZINC MINES

Assemblyman Roy Smelter of Dodgeville Paid Janesville a Visit.

On Monday evening Assemblyman Roy Smelter of Dodgeville paid Janesville a visit and attended the session of the Twilight club. Mr. Smelter is selling mining stock on mines located in and adjacent to his home city. He went from here to Milwaukee, where in an interview he stated that the western part of Wisconsin was soon to experience a boom in mining such as has never been known in the history of lead and zinc mining.

Thought Bestwick's Robbed: Some time after midnight City Marshal Appleby answered the call of one of the men in Russell's employ who informed him that Bestwick's store had been burglarized. He hastened to the scene with visions of another silk robbery quickening every step. Arriving in the alley back of the Bestwick clothing store he found Officer Thos. Morrissey investigating an unlocked door. The owners were telephoned and when they had arrived on the scene and investigated it was finally determined that the portal was unintentionally left open by a clerk.

WHY DID O'ROURKE CHANGE HIS WILL?

THIS IS THE QUESTION HIS HEIRS WANT ANSWERED.

MYSTERY REGARDING CASE

Aged Rock County Farmer Goes West, Makes New Will, and Then Dies Suddenly.

Attorney J. J. Cunningham left this noon for Denver, Colorado, on legal matters in connection with the probate of the will of the late John O'Rourke, for fifty years a resident of Spring Valley, who died in Denver on the 14th of last July. There is considerable mystery surrounding the will which has been offered for probate in the Denver courts owing to the fact that James L. Smith, a man Mr. O'Rourke met but a few weeks before his death, is a beneficiary and also is named as executor. Mr. O'Rourke died leaving an estate valued at between ten and twelve thousand dollars. Mr. Cunningham has gone west as the representative of the heirs, Henry O'Rourke and Mrs. Mary Jane Nielan. He will endeavor to have the will brought to Rock county for probate, as Mr. O'Rourke was a resident of this county at the time of his death.

Goes West. Last February Mr. O'Rourke went to Portland, Oregon. Here he purchased some property and on July 1 went to Denver, dying there the 14th. He was seventy-four years of age and had been a resident of this county for the past fifty years. Five thousand dollars in cash, which was deposited in a Denver bank at the time of his death, has been turned over to his Wisconsin heirs. Henry O'Rourke is in Denver now and Mr. Cunningham has gone there to represent his claims in court. In speaking of the matter, a Denver newspaper says the following:

"That James L. Smith, of 1333 Twenty-eighth street used some undue influence over John O'Rourke, who died at his house on July 15, is the belief of deceased's son, H. O'Rourke of Orfordville, Wis., and he will contest the will left by deceased, which nominates Smith as administrator. The value of the property involved is $10,000, which includes real estate in Portland and $5,000 on deposit in a local bank."

The Story. "According to the story of young O'Rourke, and which is partly substantiated by Smith himself, his father first met the latter a few weeks ago in Portland, and was prevailed upon to accompany him to Denver. The elder O'Rourke was in very feeble health, and went to Smith's house to reside, where he died a few days later. His family in Wisconsin was not notified until two days later, when Smith sent a telegram to the son, but giving no address, and it took police assistance in locating him."

Before His Death. Before his death, O'Rourke made a will, said to have been drawn by an attorney named W. W. White. The will of the late Mr. O'Rourke has been lodged in the county court. It provides for the erection of a monument over his grave, the remainder of his estate, valued at from $2,000 to $20,000, being divided equally between Henry O'Rourke, son, and Mary Jane Nielan, daughter, of Orfordville, Rock county. The son has arrived in Denver and it is said will make a formal objection to the naming of James Smith, his father's choice, as administrator of the estate when the will is considered by Judge Charles McCall in the county court Monday."

MAY ERECT A DAM AT KILBURN CITY SOON

Phil Spooner of Madison, Talked of This Plan at That City Last Night.

There is a possibility that in the near future residents of Rock county may be using electric current which is created by a huge dam to be erected across the Wisconsin River at Kilbourn. This has been a pet scheme for many years past, but at a mass-meeting held last night at Kilbourn, Philip Spooner of Madison, who holds the option on building the immense dam, received an ovation from the citizens of that city.

Big Plan. Mr. Spooner plans to build a big dam across the Wisconsin river, harnessing the waters and wiring electric currents to all parts of southern Wisconsin. This plan was first considered four years ago, when Mr. Spooner secured a franchise to build the Interurban road from Janesville to Madison, abandoning the idea only when the supreme court held that one man could not hold a franchise. His plan then was to erect the dam, have substations between Kilbourn and Madison and Madison and Janesville, using this power to run his electric line. As a preliminary step he built a power-house in Madison.

May Yet Be Used. The talk of John Farson building this road to Madison brings up the question as to whether he is not in the deal to erect the dam at Kilbourn and thus secure his supply of current direct from this source. Should the plan be successful and the current brought down into Rock county it will mean a great thing to the farmers and small villages who have no gas or lighting plants of their own. Running farm machinery and lighting stables and farmhouses by electricity have been tried with success in other localities and would doubtless be well received in Rock county and add to the comforts of rural life.

Gives a Bond. Mr. Spooner gave his personal bond for five thousand dollars to have the dam completed within two years at the meeting last night at Kilbourn, and if granted the right to build the dam will doubtless begin work at once. The first talk of the dam at this point was fifty-five years ago, when both a dam and railroad were talked of, but both failed to materialize at that time.

SUICIDE CLAIMED TO LIVE IN COUNTY

Unfortunate Girl in San Francisco Commits Suicide Leaving Mil-ton Junction Address.

In the San Francisco Chronicle of last Thursday there appeared a story of the suicide of a young girl, who left a note saying she was Lucy Phen of Milton Junction, Wisconsin, and asking the persons who found her remains to ship them C. O. D. to Mr. Phen at Milton Junction. Inquiry in Milton fails to reveal any person by the name of Phen living there or any young girl answering the description of the dead woman. The story of the girl's life and shame are as usual in these cases and she evidently gave a fictitious name and address even in her dying moments.

UNVEIL BEAUTIFUL MEMORIAL WINDOW

That Will Be Part of Morning Service at the Congregational Church on Sunday.

The work of installing the new memorial window in the north front of the Congregational church was completed today and the workmen returned to Chicago. It is a handsome work of art costing between $900 and $1,000 and will be unveiled at the Sunday morning service. The four panels present very beautiful figures of David, the Nativity, Christ Bearing the Cross, and the Apostle Paul. They are in memory of the late F. S. Eldred, Mr. and Mrs. Echlin, W. G. Wheelock—the latter presented by the wife and four sons—and a group of the former deacons of the church. All the figures are reproduced from the work of great artists, and the panels are surmounted by a beautiful rose-effect design.

Anderson Again Golf Champion

Record Breaking Career of Professional Who Recently Won Open Title For Fourth Time—He Is the Harry Vardon of America.

Great Britain has its Vardon, America its Anderson.

The eleventh annual open championship of the United States Golf association was finished recently over the links of the Myopia Hunt club, Hamilton, Mass., and Will Anderson of Apawamis (Itya, N. Y.) won with a 72 hole total of 314.

It was back in 1897 at Chicago, when a boy in his teens, that Anderson first sprang into prominence by getting second money to Joe Floyd in the championship of that year, the last one to be decided at 36 holes. Four years later Willie won his first title and, oddly enough, at Myopia, the scene of his latest triumph. For the last three years he has been well high invincible, winning in succession at Baltusrol, Morris county, N. J.; Glenview, near Chicago, and Myopia.

In nine annual open championships Anderson has finished in the money in all save one and has won the title four times. The only parallel to this extraordinary work is the record of Harry Vardon. Like Anderson, the Briton has won the open title over three four times, besides, once coming to this country and winning here.

That a golf competition is never settled till the last putt has been run down has again been demonstrated. For instance, at the end of the first day's play Anderson found himself five strokes to the bad. To pick up five shots in 36 holes, especially against such men as Alec Smith and Stewart Gardner, looked like a forlorn hope, but that's where nerve told.

At Fox Hills recently Smith just managed to beat Willie out for the Metropolitan open title, so the latter returned the compliment later at Myopia. Smith had to be content with second money, with a total of 316. The western contingent was, of course, doomed to disappointment. It hasn't had a look in since Larry Auchterlonie did the trick at Garden City, N. Y., in 1902. Let's glance at Anderson's record.

His first championship was in 1897, when Joe Lloyd beat him a stroke for the title. The following year, at Myopia, with the conditions calling for 72 holes, Fred Herd of Chicago led the field with 228, Anderson coming in for third money. A year later, at Baltimore, Will Smith of Midlothian, St. Louis, won with 315, this time Anderson getting fifth money. At Wheaton, Ill., in 1900, those famous English golfers, Vardon and J. H. Taylor, took the honors, Vardon getting first with 313, two strokes better than Taylor. On this occasion Anderson failed to get in the money.

It was a case of back to Myopia in 1901, and then Anderson scored his first triumph. He and Alec Smith tied at 331, but in the 18 hole play-off the former led by a stroke. The scene shifted to Garden City in 1902, resulting in Lawrence Auchterlonie romping away with first money, his 307 total leading the next best man, Stewart Gardner of the home club, by six strokes. Anderson got sixth money.

The next year at Baltusrol Anderson came into his own after a tie with David Brown at 307. This tourney looked easy for Anderson when playing the last round till he pulled into the woods at the short ninth hole, taking an 8. He beat Brown by two shots in the play-off. At Glenview last year Anderson successfully defended his title by returning the record, breaking total of 303, beating the second man, Gilbert Nichols, by five shots.

All hats off to "Willie."

Woman Proposes a Law Legalizing the Giving of Anesthetics.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 12.—Miss Anne S. Hall of Cincinnati startled the convention of the American Humane association by proposing the adoption of a resolution favoring legalizing the administration of anesthetics to persons dying in agony.

Miss Hall said that there were often incidents in time of railway wrecks when trainmen and passengers were so badly injured that their lives could not possibly be saved. In such cases Miss Hall thought it ought to be permissible to administer anesthetics to relieve their suffering. She also favored the use of anesthetics when persons were dying of incurable diseases in which they suffered agony. In the discussion one woman said that she would not hesitate to shoot a person who might be dying in agony in a railroad wreck. The resolution was ruled out.

whose photograph appears herewith has a most beautiful head of golden hair, thicker than the crown of glory of most mature women. Frances is only four years old, and her hair hangs within 12 inches of the floor. The extraordinary hair strengthening qualities of Danderine has grown for this little girl the most admirable head of hair ever possessed by a child of her age in the world. The other two ladies whose photographs are shown here are certainly delighted with the results they are getting. Neither of them having hair that would reach to their waists before beginning the use of Danderine.

IT IS POSITIVE AND PERMANENT IN ITS RESULTS.

When applied to the scalp on either old or young, it makes the hair sprout and grow thick, long and beautiful, and there is no waiting around for weeks and months to see results, either. Any druggist will refund the price if it does not accomplish every result we claim. NOW at all druggists in three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle.

THE YOKE

A Romance of the Days When the Lord Redeemed the Children of Israel From the Bondage of Egypt

By Elizabeth Miller

Copyright, 1904, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

CHAPTER XXX.

THE voices of the storm found harmonious tones of different pitch and swelled in glorious accord from the faintest breath of melody to an almighty blast that stunned the senses with stupendous hurmum. Then the chord seemed to melt and lose itself in the wild dissonances of the hurricane.

The turmoil of Israel began to subside, growing fainter, ceasing among the ranks nearest the sea, falling toward the rear, dying away like a sigh up and down the long encampment. The people that had been on their knees rose slowly. The bleating of the flocks quieted into stillness. Commotion ceased, and Israel held its breath.

The lawgiver had passed from among them, and those that followed him with their eyes saw that he was moving toward the sea, seemingly at the very limit of the outer radiance and still going on. First to one and then to another it became apparent that the extent of the illuminated beach was widening. Hither and thither over the multitude the intelligence ran in whispers or by glances. Having showed his neighbor, each looked again. Rippling worn sand, shells, barnacle covered rocks, slowly came within the pale of the radiance, and Moses moved with it. Eight stalwart Hebrews, bearing a funeral ark, shrouded with a purple pall, fringed with gold, emerged from among the people and, taking a place in front of the lawgiver, walked confidently down the sand toward the east.

The radiance progressed step by step. Wet rocks entered the glow, lines of seaweed, immense drifts of debris, the brink of the ledge, the shadow before it, and then a sandy bottom.

A long line of old men, two abreast, the wind making the picture awesome as it tossed their boards and gray robes, followed the lawgiver. After them several litters borne by young men proceeded in imposing order.

Except for the raving of the tempest there was no sound in Israel.

A double file of camels with sumptuous housings moved with dignified and unhasty tread after the litters. By this time the foremost ranks of the procession were some distance ahead, the limit of radiance just in advance and lighting with special tenderness the funeral ark. Here were the bones of that noblest son of Jacob. Having brought Israel into Egypt, Joseph was leading it forth again.

Pools lighted by the ray glowed like sheets of gold, darkling here and there with shadow; long ledges of rock, bearded with deep water growth, sparkled rarely in the light; stretches of golden sand, colored with salts of the waters and littered with curious fish life, lay between.

Where was the sea?

After the camels followed a score of mules, little and trim in contrast to the tall shaggy beasts ahead of them. They were burdened bearing animals, precious among Israel, for they were laden with the records of the tribes, much treasure in jewels and fine stuffs, incense, writing materials and such things as the people would need and were not to be had from among them or like to be found in the places to which they might come. These passed and their drivers with them.

The next moment Kenekes was caught in the center of a rushing wave of humanity. He fought off the consternation that threatened to seize him and tried to care for himself, but a read on the breast of the Nile at flood could not have been more helpless. Behind Israel were the Egyptians, ahead of it, miraculous escape; the one impulse of the multitude was flight. That any remembered his mate or his children, his goods, his treasure or his cattle, was a marvel.

The foremost ranks, moving in directly behind the leaders, had adopted their pace. Furthermore, as the advance guard they had a greater sense of security, and before them was all the east open for flight. Not so with the hindmost. They were near the dreaded place from which the army would descend. Ahead of them was a deliberate host, within them soul consuming fear and panic. The rear rushed, the forward ranks walked, and the center, caught between, was jammed into a compact mass.

Neither halt nor escape was possible. Press as the hindmost might upon those forward, the pace was slackened instead of quickened. The advance grew slower as it extended back through the ranks, for each succeeding line lost a momentum in the length of the step till at the rear they were pushing hard and barely moving. No wonder they sobbed, prayed, panted, surged, swayed and pressed. How they reviled the small-like leaders, not knowing that the sturdy pace lagged in the body of the multitude! So they hastened and progressed only inch by inch.

After the first moment of battle against the human sea Kenekes recognized the futility of resistance and suffered himself to be borne along. There was no turning back now, had he been so disposed. He had left behind him his purposes unaccomplished.

He had received no explicit promise from Moses, and if he had given ear to the doubts of his own reason he might have been sorely afraid, much troubled for Egypt and all he loved therein. But he went with the multitude passively, even contentedly. He did not speculate how his God would fight for him. His faith was perfect. As for his presence with Israel, no one heeded him. Sometimes it came his way to be helpful. An old man lost his feet and, becoming panic stricken, was soothed only when the young Egyptian put a strong arm about him and held him till his feet touched earth again. Children became heavy in the arms of parents, and the little Hebrews had no fear of the young man who carried them awhile instead.

In the early hours of the morning, having become so accustomed to the roar of the wind and the sound of the moving multitude, Kenekes ceased to be conscious of it. Other sounds, which hours before would have failed to reach his ears, became distinct. The crying of tired children reached him, and he detected even snatches of talk among the ranks some distance away from him. Thus a clamor of noise, secondary in force, grew about him. Above it all at last came a sound that would have made him halt if he could.

He tried to think it one of the many voices of the storm, but the second time he heard it he knew what it was.

Far to the rear a trumpet call, beautiful and spirited, rose upon the air. The Egyptian army was in pursuit! Israel heard it and, crying aloud in its terror, swept forward as if the trumpet call had commanded it. Kenekes felt a quickening of pulse, a momentary tremor, but no more.

He became conscious finally of a warmth penetrating his sandals. He knew that he had been struggling up a slope for a long time, and now he realized that he was again on the dry, sun heated sand of the desert. The multitude ceased to crowd, the pressure about him diminished, the ranks began to widen to his left and right, the leaders halted together, and, though there was still much movement among the body and rear of the host, people turned to look upon their neighbors.

The overhanging cloud parted from the eastern horizon, leaving a strip of sky softly lighted by the coming morn. Without any preliminary diminution of its force, the wind failed entirely.

Kenekes, with many others, looked back and saw that the pillar, illuminated, but no longer illuminating, had halted above a solitary figure of seemingly superhuman stature in the morning gray standing on an eminence overlooking the sea.

The arm was uplifted and outstretched, tense and motionless.

From his superior height Kenekes saw over the heads of the immense concourse two lines of foam riding like the wind across the sea bed toward each other. Between them was a great body of flustering banners, and faint for of the commotion came shouts and wild notes of trumpets. Then the two lines of foam snote against each other with a fearful rush and a muffled report like the cannonading of surf. A mountain of water pitched high into the air and collapsed in a vast froth, which spread abroad over the churning, wallowing sea. The falling wind dashed a sheet of spray over the silent host on the eastern shore. Sharp against the white foam dark objects and masses sank, arose and sank again.

The arm was uplifted.

At that moment the sun thrust a broad shaft of light between the horizon and the lifted cloud.

It discovered only the sea, raving and stormy, and afar to the west a misty, vacant, lifeless line of shore.

"And the waters returned and covered the chariots and the horsemen and all the host of the Pharaoh that came into the sea after them. There remained not so much as one of them."

So perished Hah-har and the flower of the Egyptian army.

DEEP CHANNEL IN MISSISSIPPI

Congress Is Urged to Maintain Six-Foot Waterway in the River.

FAVOR RESERVOIR SYSTEM

Association Will Devote Its Efforts to Developing Reserve Supply at the Headwaters Under Direction of Senator Washburn.

La Crosse, Wis., Oct. 12.—The upper Mississippi river convention adopted resolutions urging congress to establish and maintain a six-foot channel in the Mississippi river from Minneapolis to Cairo, provided for raising a fund of $10,000 to carry on the work of organization and appoint a committee on ways and means, with one representative each from Missouri, Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota, to raise and handle the funds.

Steps taken by the United States government for the preservation of the forests were indorsed.

A committee was appointed to investigate the draw bridges on the upper river and to take such action as may be necessary to condemn those not in safe condition.

Draw Bridge Is Condemned.

The draw bridge at Hannibal, Mo., was condemned in the resolution and in the discussion it was denounced by several speakers as a death trap.

The next convention was awarded to Minneapolis.

At the banquet speeches were made by Congressmen Esch and Davidson of Wisconsin, Representative Rainey of Illinois, former Governor Van Sant of Minnesota and representatives from all the upper river states.

During the next year the activity of Upper Mississippi River Improvement association will center in the development of the system of reservoirs at the headwaters. At the closing session this responsibility was shouldered at the instigation of the Minneapolis delegation, over the opposition of many in the convention. The association takes up the work with the understanding that it is for the best interests of the Mississippi as a whole. Committee of three, of which Senator W. D. Washburn of Minnesota will be the head, will have charge of the department.

Officers Are Elected.

Old officers of the association were re-elected and vice presidents were chosen as follows:

President—Thomas Wilkinson, Burlington, Iowa.

Secretary—Lewis B. Boswell, Quincy, Iowa.

Treasurer—J. P. Echart, Guttenburg, Iowa.

Vice Presidents—Illinois, C. W. Williamson, Quincy; Missouri, L. M. Mason, St. Louis; Iowa, Alonzo Bryson, Davenport; Minnesota, S. R. Van Sant, St. Paul; Wisconsin, John C. Burns, La Crosse.

The association perfected a permanent organization and provided for membership of individuals. A resolution was passed calling for local educational public meetings in all the cities interested during the months of November and December.

WARNS AGAINST BITE OF GIRL

German Scientist Says Snake May Be Worse Than Snake's.

Middletown, Conn., Oct. 12.—Prof. W. D. Miller of the University of Berlin at Wesleyan announced in a lecture that a bite of a pretty girl would often bring a quicker and more horrible death than the bite of a serpent. Prof. Miller, who has made a special study of the bacteria of the mouth, said that only a short time ago he experimented on a beautiful girl in Germany and found that an arrow dipped in saliva from her mouth would send its victim in death throes more terrible than one dipped in the venom of the most deadly snake.

Department of Justice Gets Charges Made Against Baker of Indiana.

Washington, Oct. 12.—The charge of soliciting and accepting campaign contributions in the campaign of 1902 made against United States Circuit Judge Baker of Indiana by the civil service commission has been referred to the Department of Justice by the commission. In connection with the reference the commission gave out an official statement of the case, in which it was said "the statute of limitation is the only defense which can be opposed to the charge."

ANNUL THE MARKET CONTRACT

Canal Supplies Will Be Handled Under Commissioner's Order.

Panama, Oct. 12.—The last action of the Panama canal commission before sailing from Colon for New York was the annulment of the contract awarded to J. E. Markel of Omaha, Neb., for feeding and caring for the employees of the canal. The reason for this action is that Chief Engineer Stevens, through the department of materials and supplies, under Messrs. Jackson and Smith, is handling the commissaries successfully, rendering unnecessary the arrangement. The contract with Mr. Markel was to run five years and it was estimated that it would involve $50,000,000.

Kills Indians With Rum.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 12.—Joseph Plante, under indictment for selling Florida water containing wood alcohol to Indians, and thus causing the death of nine red-men, surprised the United States court officials by entering a plea of guilty.

Japs Seize German Steamers.

Tokio, Oct. 12.—The German steamers Emstruse and Hans Wagner were seized off Fusan and Nishima, respectively. Both were bound for Vladivostok, and it is alleged they carried contraband.

Mme. Ternina Has Stroke.

New York, Oct. 12.—Mme. Milka Ternina, the famous Wagnerian singer, has suffered a slight stroke of paralysis. The prima donna will go to Italy for the winter to recover.

Styles That Are Souvenirs.

Did you ever hear of the tight-wristed blouse got its name? It is called the "Garibaldi" blouse.

It dates from the Cornican leader's days of peasantry. He was poor then, and he used to wear an old red jersey with full sleeves and tight wrists. When he became famous his soldiers petitioned him not to cast it off. So he wore it on through all his triumphs. Years after, when the Corsican was dead, a society lady in London fancied a blouse with the same full sleeves and drawn wristbands. "Call it the 'Garibaldi,'" suggested a shopwalker. And they did. There is the "Gladstone" collar and bag. The famous statesman was the first to wear the one and the first also to use the other. Now every busy man and woman has a "Gladstone." As to the collar, this is not nearly so popular, but it lives in memory.

Sheep's Wool as Barometers.

Shepherds believe the wool on a sheep's back is an unfailing barometer. The curlier the wool the finer will be the weather.

Prompt, Easy Recovery.

The greatest thing in the world is a Mother's Love; the love she lavishes on her children; the love her child should have for her; without this love she could not endure the agonies incident to childbirth; appreciative of this love, Mother's Friend was devised to ease the pain and anguish of childbirth, and to preserve her youthful lines of beauty and make pregnancy her crowning joy without any thorns to mar it.

Mother's Friend

is applied externally, is most harmless in its consistency, most happy in its results, and is of such merit that no case of labor should be conducted without its use. It is a liniment for massage of the abdominal muscles during pregnancy, and by its use their tonicity and power of contraction is greatly enhanced, enabling them to sustain the great strain brought to bear on them at this time. It is Mother's Friend. The name should be enough to recommend it to all who expect to be mothers.

WORTH A THOUGHT.

This Statement Will Interest Scores of Janesville Readers.

The facts given below are worth a perusal by all who are anxious about their physical condition or are similarly situated to this resident of Beloit.

It is a local occurrence and can be thoroughly investigated.

Mr. J. E. Flint, of 876 Bluff street Beloit, Miller at the Blodgett Mt. Co., says: "I had pain in my back for about two years. Unable to work, I was not jaded up and aching while at work was disagreeable and inconvenient. Standing and walking about aggravated it, or if I sat in one position any length of time my back became very stiff. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills in one of our papers and as they were especially recommended for such complaints I got a box. They soon took the pain and soreness out of my back and kidneys. They reached the spot at once."

Plenty more proof like this from Janesville people. Call at the Peoples' Drug store and ask what their customers report.

John Doe X His Mark

A man's mark is his honor. It stands for him and he stands for it. It's the old Saxon way of signifying good intentions.

The right to be protected in the exclusive use of a trade mark has been long recognized by the common law and enforced by the chancery courts of England and this country.

The Government puts its mark on a bond to give it value.

The National Biscuit Company puts its trade mark in red and white on each end of a package of biscuit, crackers and wafers to distinguish these products and to guarantee the quality, and it does.

To more clearly comprehend the real value of this trade mark, try packages of BUTTER THIN BISCUIT and LEMON SNAPS.

HELPING OTHERS.

In Club Notes I recently asked that anyone who knew of a good home remedy for any of the ills of life, should tell me of it so that I might tell all of the readers. Some who may need just that remedy will read it and be grateful to you for many years for the kindly help which you have given.

Not long ago there was a meeting here at the headquarters of the club of some of the more earnest and thoughtful members, and some of the noted men and women who have subscribed to the special report of the meeting expressed the belief that the Home Health club has been and is now one of the most powerful factors for good that has appeared for many years. Time, labor and expense have not been spared to make the club work the most helpful and practical possible, and while you and I may never know who nor how many suffering ones we may help, yet we have the consciousness of having given to suffering ones the means which have been tried and tested, of relieving pain.

For seven years this work has steadily grown until to-day many thousands are constantly helping it along by telling to others what it has done for them. The Home Health club seems to have the faculty of inspiring an enthusiasm for health and right living which is resistless. I do not claim to have discovered all of the secrets of perpetual youth, but I have been able to not only grow younger, stronger and healthier myself, but to help others do the same thing. Good health enables one to succeed because there will be enthusiasm to back up the energy and fresh rich blood to the brain which supplies the ideas, a master at the helm of a strong craft sailing steadily forward over the sea of life, ready at all times to help the struggling ones who have been shipwrecked.

I have always said that enthusiasm was the glow of the soul, the lever which lifts men out of the rut of cynicism, pessimism, gossip and doubt to a higher level than the common man and give him a power for achieving desired results, that is almost God-like in its potency. Given a sound mind in a sound body any legitimate object within the range of human abilities is possible, and the man who is determined to have a sound mind in a sound body can have it.

The Home Health club will help any and all, and in many cases during the past years has turned despair into joy and despondency into brightness and happiness. Life in its fullness, with gladness and happy faces, hope for future and helpfulness to others is the portion of the Home Health club members. The watchword of the club has always been: "Pass It On." You have been helped. Tell it to others, get them to subscribe for this paper and they will then come into the circle of Home Health club influence and may at any time receive help also. Write to me of your ills and I will try to help you. Write to me of what has helped you and I will tell it to many thousands.

CLUB NOTES.

Hartsville.—Dr. David H. Reeder, Laporte, Ind.—Dear Doctor: I wish to consult you regarding my little boy, aged six. When he was two years old he was stricken with paralysis. It came on all at once. He seemed cross all day and at night staggered when he walked. The next morning he could not walk at all and for over a year he did not walk, but crawled around. At first when he sat in his chair he would twist his head and neck as though his back hurt him. After he had been this way about a year he began to walk again a little at a time. He now gets around quite well, but one leg is somewhat shorter than the other which seems to be all right. He cannot move the toes of the one foot but very little, and if allowed to go barefoot he walks on the outside of his foot.

One doctor told me that it was caused by an adherent prepuce. Another doctor said it was a dislocation in his spine. Our family doctor laughed at both these ideas and said that no doctor could tell what caused it. What is your opinion? Can it be entirely cured? Our doctor says the only thing to do is to let him exercise and nature do the rest. Respectfully, P. M.

I would refer you to the lecture which was recently published on the subject of "Infantile Paralysis" and would advise you to read it carefully and adopt the suggestions therein given. If treated promptly by the method described a cure can nearly always be effected.

The doctor who laughed at the suggestions made by the other doctors, was himself the one who should be laughed at, as either one or both of the conditions could cause the disease and a careful examination ought to disclose the cause.

Sterling.—Dr. David H. Reeder, Laporte, Ind.—Dear Sir: I am a reader of the Home Health club and I must say that I like your instructions very much, and I believe your advice will be worth much to me. I have for years been troubled with a bad complexion and with pimples and blackheads on my face, and I would be so thankful to you for a remedy. Also will you please give me instructions as to how I may gain flesh. I am a farmer's wife and do a great deal of physical labor, but I would like to be more fleshy since I weigh just about 100 and am real poor. Any advice will be very much appreciated. Very truly, Mrs. E.

Every night just before retiring drink a large cupful of very hot milk, not boiled, but heated just to the boiling point, and sip it slowly with a teaspoon. Eat no meat at the evening meal but take plenty of juicy ripe fruits. For breakfast, among other wholesome foods, eat a generous dish of stewed prunes or apples. Drink no tea or coffee. If a hot drink is desired, let it be hot milk or chocolate. Do not drink while food is in the mouth, but masticate all of your food thoroughly. For dessert at the noon-day meal, eat rice custard, rice pudding, or other dishes of rice with cream and then eat about one ounce of almond nut meats. The skins of the meats should be removed by scalding and the meats should then be browned, buttered and salted or browned and dipped in sweet chocolate. Drink an abundance of pure water between meals and breathe plenty of fresh air both night and day.

The face must be carefully washed with warm soft water and soap every night before retiring and after carefully drying apply a lotion composed of glycerine and witch hazel, equal parts; this will overcome the blackheads if the washing is thorough. Follow this regime and your complexion will not only be perfect, but, if you don't worry, you will take on flesh and be as plump and rosy as you desire.

Moorehead.—Dr. David H. Reeder, Laporte, Ind.—Kind Sir: "Ringworm of the scalp is essentially the same disease as ringworm of the skin; it consists in the growth of a microscopic vegetable which causes a light inflammation and irritation of the surrounding skin. In consequence of the presence of the hairs, however, ringworm of the scalp is a far more obstinate affection than ringworm on parts of the body not covered with a thick growth of hair, for these microscopic plants grow down into the little sacs or follicles which surround the roots of the hairs; hence it is far more difficult to destroy and eradicate the parasites when they acquire a foothold on the scalp than it is when they grow upon the surface of the skin elsewhere."

"Favus" is caused by another vegetable parasite, a member of the fungus family of plants, the achorion schoenleinii. This parasite grows only on the hairy parts of the body as a rule, tho' it occasionally appears on the other parts of the skin. In this disease crusts are formed in and around the hairs; they are often matted together so as to constitute an enormous scab over a large part of the whole of the scalp. These crusts are of a yellowish color, often somewhat saucer-shaped, and are pierced in the middle by a hair. When the crusts are removed there is observed underneath a reddish surface from which the skin has been separated; in bad cases deep ulcers are found underneath the crusts. When these masses are removed by treatment the skin heals again, but in many cases the sites of the disease remain permanently bald. This results from the fact that the hair follicles are entirely destroyed by the growth of the parasite. In aggravated cases, where the disease has been neglected for months or years, the entire scalp may be absolutely devoid of hair."

The above is copied from the "Practical Physician" and gives a description of the trouble I have. Have had it for several years, on my forehead for about three years. Have not seen any doctors for it, and the only thing I have used is tincture of iodine—but no cure. Have taken blood medicines, but it is no disease of the blood. Washing it seems also to do more harm than good. If you can form an idea of what my trouble is from these lines, hope to hear from you. The two diseases, by the description, are so much alike, that I mentioned both. Respectfully, J. P.

The description which you have given is fairly accurate, but the method of treatment is practically valueless. The Home Health club treatment of ringworm is given in Volume II of the club books, and I am quite certain that if you apply the treatment described you will be relieved. I have also written you privately as to further home treatment.

All readers of this publication are at liberty to write for any information pertaining to the subject of health. Address all communications to the Home Health Club or Dr. David H. Reeder, Laporte, Ind., with name and address in full and at least four cents in postage.

The Foxy Japs.

During their war with Russia the Japanese took pictures of the Russian prisoners and their surroundings in Japan and with the aid of kites scattered them among the Russian soldiers in camp, in order to show the contrast between their hardships and the comforts enjoyed by the prisoners.

When Two Philosophers Meet. "What's the difference between being married and being in jail?" asked the Pothole Philosopher.

"There's a heap o' difference," replied the sage of Plunkville. "A man in jail kin get some time off for good behavior."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Gentle Nature in Japan. In Japan all animals appear to be tame and approach man without fear; the bees don't sting, the snakes preserve their venom, the dogs bite not. It looks as if the spirit of kindness and cooperation which distinguishes the race has been extended to the brute creation.

Cost of Feeding Animals. The cost of feeding animals in the London Zoo last year was $17,000. The principal items of food were 207 horses, 270 goats, 34,921 pounds of fish, 25,195 eggs, 6,355 quarts of milk, and 127 loads of hay.

WARNS BANKERS TO BE CAREFUL

Vanderlip Says Danger Lurks in the Bright Financial Situation.

UPSET IN STOCK SPECULATION

Urges Conservatism and Prudence in the Handling of Securities, Which Would Surely Bring Disaster if Reverses Came.

Washington, Oct. 12.—At the opening session of the convention of the American Bankers' association here Wednesday Frank A. Vanderlip of the City National Bank of New York, former assistant secretary of the treasury, declared the financial outlook at the present time to be very bright, but gave warning that almost as surely there were dangers lurking in the situation.

"Should a stock market speculation start from the present high level of prices in the face of the extraordinary demand for capital and money which crops and business alike are making," said he, "the result might easily be a temporary disaster. Although there may be many favorable features to the outlook, it is no time for prudence to be cast to the wind; no time for speculative commitments which would yield disaster if temporary reverses came, no time for laxness in any of the forms of business prudence and conservatism."

Defends Industrial Combines. Mr. Vanderlip said that greatly increased income, diminishing liabilities and the provision of ample working capital had worked marvels in the way of prosperity for the agricultural communities during recent years. In the same time similar conditions had developed in the industrial field and narrowness of outlook and lack of coordination which led to the wasteful duplication of plants and a vast expenditure of capital had given way to more intelligent management.

In the earlier stages, he said, many of these combinations of industries, which had been swept together under hastily considered plans, were properly open to criticism. He believed, however, that evidence had accumulated to prove that the men who had formed these great corporations had shown true wisdom and that the improvement already foreshadowed in the income accounts and balance sheets was but an indication of what yet may come.

Must Have Foreign Markets.

He called attention to the necessity of ceaselessly prosecuting the struggle for foreign markets and said he believed increasing opposition in the way of duties would be met after every succeeding meeting of the continental parliaments.

The case with which the financial world withstood the strain of a war which cost the combatant nations $2,000,000,000, Mr. Vanderlip said, he believed was due to the greatly increased production of gold in recent years. To this increased production he also gave the credit for the recovery from industrial depression during the last three years.

At the same time he expressed the belief that in this very increase there was a possible future disturbance of values. Should the present rate of production continue he believed the volume of money in the world would double in twenty years, with the result that prices of many commodities would be greatly increased—possibly doubled.

Effect of Gold on Trade.

While the increase in the supply of money would tend to advance the price of real property, however, the price of an obligation repayable in money would not advance. Thus all persons having a fixed income, persons receiving a fixed salary, or wage earners generally, would be at a disadvantage, for their incomes would not tend to increase as rapidly as the purchasing power of their incomes decreased.

He believed, however, that the theory of the classical economists, that with the doubling of the gold stock would come a doubling of prices, would not hold entirely good. Such a result, he thought, would be prevented by the exploitation of virgin fields of development, such as followed the discovery of great quantities of gold in Mexico, Peru, California and Australia, and that the next few years would witness the expansion of the field of commercial enterprise into many new places.

The Simple Life.

The millionaire element has been a bad influence in our midst only so far as it tempted people of just good incomes to ruffle it with the richest. Now, wise men and women are content to leave ostentatious dressing, entertaining and living to the millionaires, and to extract all the comfort they can from their own secure allowance.

The Time in French.

"What a man your father is!" exclaimed Mrs. Fogle, looking up from the letter in her hand. "He says he has bought a French clock and shall bring it home with him. What will it be good for except as an ornament? None of us can tell the time by it, unless you can, Edith. You know something about French, don't you?"—Boston Transcript.

Another Old Story Upset.

It having been determined that (1) practically everybody has pneumonia germs in his mouth, and that (2) sunlight kills these germs, it arouses a suspicion that the theory of the wisdom of keeping one's mouth shut has been a bit overworked.—Indianapolis News.

THOMAS F. BAKER CLAIMED BY DEATH

Passed Away Shortly Before Noon

Today—Was a Soldier of the Thirtieth Wisconsin.

As the result of a paralytic stroke received about a week ago, Thomas F. Baker, one of Janesville's most well known citizens, died at eleven-thirty o'clock this morning, at his home, 410 South Bluff street. The deceased was a member of the Thirtieth Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry and served with that regiment during the war of the rebellion. There is left to mourn his death a widow. Announcement of the funeral will be made later.

Josephine Violetta Shaw

Josephine Violetta Shaw, the eight months' old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Shaw, passed away last evening at half-past ten o'clock at the home of her parents on Pleasant street. The funeral services will be from the home at two o'clock Sunday afternoon. Burial will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

Miss Amanda Herkimer

Funeral services over the remains of the late Miss Amanda Herkimer were held at two-thirty o'clock this afternoon from the home, 152 South Academy street. Rev. R. M. Vaughan was the officiating clergyman and burial was in Oak Hill cemetery.

The National Association of Stationers and Manufacturers, in session in St. Louis yesterday, elected John A. Schlener of Minneapolis, Minn., president of the organization.

WOMAN ROUTS A NEGRO DURING FIERCE FIGHT

Puts Up Desperate Battle and Compels Black Man to Seek Safety in Flight.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 12.—Mrs. Frank Mulky, prominent in club circles, was attacked in her home early Wednesday by a negro, who gained entrance to her bedroom by climbing a veranda. She fought the man so desperately that he became frightened and fled.

Mrs. Mulky gave the alarm by telephone and the entire police force started on a hunt. A negro named Johnson, with his face and hands badly scratched, was taken before Mrs. Mulky and positively identified.

Mrs. Mulky is in a state of partial collapse.

An indictment charging criminal assault was returned by the grand jury against Johnson, who pleaded not guilty before Judge Wilson. Johnson's trial was set for Monday, and the prisoner was taken to the Jeffersonville reformatory for safe keeping. The local authorities will take every precaution to prevent trouble when the negro is returned to this city Monday for trial.

EFFECT OF CONVERSION PLAIN.

Sinner Had Improved in Observance of the Sabbath.

While going through Maine, Evangelist Moody happened to be in the town of Watford, where he heard of John White, who had the reputation of working on Sunday, although all the ministers in the neighboring towns had argued with him and tried to stop it. Mr. Moody decided to try his luck with him, and after a long talk succeeded in convincing him that it was wrong to work on Sunday.

The next Sunday White was in church and his name enrolled. In a few days Mr. Moody left the town, feeling that he had done a thing which had proved too difficult for others, and that at least one sinner in that town had been turned from the error of his way.

A few weeks later, while driving a load of lumber into the town, White was met by the deacon of the church, and the following conversation ensued:

"Now, Mr. White," said the deacon, "isn't there a difference since the spirit of God has entered your soul?" "Yes, there is quite a difference," answered White, frankly. "Before when I went to work on Sunday I used to carry the axe on my shoulder, but now I carry it under my coat."

Intentions.

There is no French law against suicide, but those who have attempted recently to drown themselves in the Seine, and have failed have been arrested and punished on the authority of an old law which forbids throwing bodies into the river. One such arrest was made recently. The prisoner pleaded not guilty.

"But," said the judge of instruction, "you admit that you cast yourself into the river. That is illegal."

"The law," said the prisoner, "provides for the punishment of those who cast dead, not living, bodies into the river, else every one who went swimming in the Seine would be a criminal."

"But," said the judge, "you intended to be dead. You had wickedly planned to make of yourself an offensive corpse and with that most loathsome thing to corrupt the waters of the Seine. I fine you a thousand francs."

"Very well," remarked the prisoner. "Take it from the sum which was confiscated from my pockets by the police at the time of my arrest."

"There was no money in your pockets," said the judge.

"True," said the prisoner, "but I had intended that on that date there should be a million francs there."—Judge.

FORCES CITY FATHERS TO MAINTAIN QUORUM

Mayor Moores of Omaha Puts Through Contract With Gas Company With Aid of the Police.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 12.—By stationing policemen at every door of the council chamber Mayor Moores prevented three members from leaving and thus maintained a quorum for the passage of a gas ordinance. The scene was sensational in the extreme and personal clashes were narrowly averted. Mayor Moores and Councilman O'Brien were beginning a fist fight when another member interposed.

The matter under discussion was that of granting a franchise to the Omaha Gas company for the city lights, which was approved by the majority.

The council met in adjourned session, a quorum not being present at the regular weekly meeting. After a roll of the council was called President Zimmerman and Councilmen Nicholson and O'Brien started to leave, thus breaking the quorum, but were forced by policemen to remain in the council room. A member of the majority made a motion placing the ordinance on its passage, but President Zimmerman refused to put the question. Councilman Huntington, a member of the majority, put the question, five members voting for it. The minority members declined to vote.

Twice O'Brien attempted to leave the council chamber, and was forcibly pushed back by a policeman. President Zimmerman also was forcibly required to remain.

Mayor Moores was present and immediately returned the contract with the bond approved. The mayor made an inflammatory speech, and several vile epithets were passed between the executive and minority members of the council.

City Attorney Herdman declares the action is illegal, while an attorney representing the gas company says the contract as approved is satisfactory.

The ordinance provides for a ten-year contract with the gas company for furnishing street lamps at $28 each per year. It is alleged by the minority that cheaper lights may be secured.

Frogs Eat Chickens.

B. A. De Weese, a Kingman farmer, placed seventy young chickens, just hatched, near the bank of a pond, tying the old hens with strings so that they could get to the water's edge. In three days his seventy chickens dwindled to six. An investigation revealed the fact that frogs had eaten the chickens.—Kansas City Journal.
